

Oh, the king is sad he want become a sad

The many gods see him and send Rama to him

Rama, Vishnu's form of human being will take Ravana's everything

King Dasharata makes a mistake indeed it was a terrible mistake

Falling into the queen's trap sending Rama out of his father lap

With Sita and his brother Rama goes to the forest, where there's no one to brother

The death of great king, forever gone Rama still follows his dharma and obey the promise, that he have to be done

Next comes Ravana's sister calling Rama my sweet little mister but Rama says "No" so she calls Ravana and tell him to "Go".

One look at Sita, Ravana falls in love with Rama's deer
He changes himself into a beautiful deer

When Rama and brother fall for the trick
Sita is kidnapped by Ravana, fast as a clock's 'tick'

With some help from his friend, animals he goes to rescue his wife and that dirty animal

'Kill! Kill! Kill!' everybody chanted with Hanuman's monkey warriors, Rama's wish is granted

Ravana is dead and no one is sad

Everyone is happy and Rama gets his glory
Now that was a happy ending, such a typical story
